

I'll Paint A Picture

L. Manne/L. Kotzer

I'll paint a picture with my words
To show how much you mean to me
I'll paint a picture with my words
You're the beauty in the scenery

You were a leaf landing by my side
Somehow the winds blew you to me
Was it luck or was it fate?
Now your love's a river running through me

Your smile can turn the cold to warm
In your eyes I see the gold sunrise
Is it your laugh, or is it your touch?
To me you'll always be my blue skies

I'll paint a picture with my words
To show how much you mean to me
I'll paint a picture with my words
You're the beauty in the scenery

You are the mountains always there
The clouds appear when we're apart
It's my passion, it's my love
That steals these words from my heart

Your smile can turn the cold to warm
In your eyes I see the gold sunrise
Is it your laugh, or is it your looks?
To me you'll always be my blue skies

I'll paint a picture with my words
To show how much you mean to me
You're the beauty in the scenery
I'll paint a picture

I'll paint a picture with my words
My brush strokes firm and true
I'll paint a picture with my words
To show how much I love you
